Notes on the Special Conditions of Contract

Similar to the BDS, the clauses in this Section are intended to assist the Procuring Entity in providing contract-specific information in relation to corresponding clauses in the GCC found in Section IV.

The Special Conditions of Contract (SCC) complement the GCC, specifying contractual requirements linked to the special circumstances of the Procuring Entity, the Procuring Entity's country, the sector, and the Goods purchased. In preparing this Section, the following aspects should be checked:

- a. Information that complements provisions of the GCC must be incorporated.
- b. Amendments and/or supplements to provisions of the GCC as necessitated by the circumstances of the specific purchase, must also be incorporated.

However, no special condition which defeats or negates the general intent and purpose of the provisions of the GCC should be incorporated herein.

Section VII. Technical Specifications

Notes for Preparing the Technical Specifications

A set of precise and clear specifications is a prerequisite for Bidders to respond realistically and competitively to the requirements of the Procuring Entity without qualifying their Bids. In the context of Competitive Bidding, the specifications (e.g. production/delivery schedule, manpower requirements, and after-sales service/parts, descriptions of the lots or items) must be prepared to permit the widest possible competition and, at the same time, present a clear statement of the required standards of workmanship, materials, and performance of the goods and services to be procured. Only if this is done will the objectives of transparency, equity, efficiency, fairness, and economy in procurement be realized, responsiveness of bids be ensured, and the subsequent task of bid evaluation and post-qualification facilitated. The specifications should require that all items, materials and accessories to be included or incorporated in the goods be new, unused, and of the most recent or current models, and that they include or incorporate all recent improvements in design and materials unless otherwise provided in the Contract.

Samples of specifications from previous similar procurements are useful in this respect. The use of metric units is encouraged. Depending on the complexity of the goods and the repetitiveness of the type of procurement, it may be advantageous to standardize the General Technical Specifications and incorporate them in a separate subsection. The General Technical Specifications should cover all classes of workmanship, materials, and equipment commonly involved in manufacturing similar goods. Deletions or addenda should then adapt the General Technical Specifications to the particular procurement.

Care must be taken in drafting specifications to ensure that they are not restrictive. In the specification of standards for equipment, materials, and workmanship, recognized Philippine and international standards should be used as much as possible. Where other particular standards are used, whether national standards or other standards, the specifications should state that equipment, materials, and workmanship that meet other authoritative standards, and which ensure at least a substantially equal quality than the standards mentioned, will also be acceptable. The following clause may be inserted in the Special Conditions of Contract or the Technical Specifications.

Sample Clause: Equivalency of Standards and Codes

Wherever reference is made in the Technical Specifications to specific standards and codes to be met by the goods and materials to be furnished or tested, the provisions of the latest edition or revision of the relevant standards and codes shall apply, unless otherwise expressly stated in the Contract. Where such standards and codes are national or relate to a particular country or region, other authoritative standards that ensure substantial equivalence to the standards and codes specified will be acceptable.

Reference to brand name and catalogue number should be avoided as far as possible; where unavoidable they should always be followed by the words “or at least equivalent.” References to brand names cannot be used when the funding source is the GOP.

Where appropriate, drawings, including site plans as required, may be furnished by the Procuring Entity with the Bidding Documents. Similarly, the Supplier may be requested to provide drawings or samples either with its Bid or for prior review by the Procuring Entity during contract execution.

Bidders are also required, as part of the technical specifications, to complete their statement of compliance demonstrating how the items comply with the specification.

In case of Renewal of Regular and Recurring Services, the Procuring Entity must indicate here the technical requirements for the service provider, which must include the set criteria in the conduct of its performance evaluation.

Technical Specifications

Specification	Statement of Compliance
The server hosting the network monitoring system should meet the following requirements:
The proposed solution must be based on a hyper-converged infrastructure (HCI) platform. HCI integrates compute, storage, and networking resources into a scalable system.
Three (3) units Hyper-converged Infrastructure
The HCI platform should be listed in the Leaders Quadrant of the latest Magic Quadrant report for HCI. Positioning as a leader in the report indicates the platform's strong performance and market presence.
Vendor Integration: The proposed solution's hardware, software, and support agreement must be from the same hyper-converged platform vendor. This ensures seamless compatibility and simplifies future engagements, upgrades, and renewals. Vendor integration also enhances the overall management and support experience.
Virtualized Storage and Compute Platform Requirements (1U or 2U) should meet the following requirements:
Hypervisor Support: The solution must have end-to-end and available support for VMware vSphere, Microsoft Hyper-V, and open-source KVM hypervisors. This ensures compatibility and flexibility in virtualization environments.
Form Factor: The platform should be available 1U form factor.
No. of nodes: 3
CPU and Cores: Minimum of 1 CPU sockets per host and with 12cores each CPU socket @ 2.0GHz per host
RAM: With 128 GB RAM per host.
Storage: 2 x 3.84TB NVMe SSD per host; 2x 8TB HDD per host
Network Interface Cards: 2x 10G SFP+ with 10G SR transceivers per host
Usable Capacity: The platform should provide a minimum of 19 TB usable capacity without compression, deduplication, or erasure coding enabled.
Out-of-Band Management: The platform should have an out-of-band management port that allows host power control, remote console access, and hardware alerting and health monitoring.
Redundancy: Redundant power supplies and cooling fans per chassis should be included for increased reliability.
Solution Features Requirements must have the following features:

100% Software-Defined System : The solution should be a fully software defined system without dependencies on proprietary hardware, allowing flexibility and avoiding vendor lock-in.
Storage Resource Aggregation: The solution should be able to aggregate local storage disk resources across all server nodes in the cluster into a pool that is accessible to all hosts.
Redundancy and High Availability: The solution must include redundant components to eliminate single points of failure in the system, ensuring high availability.
Hypervisor Support: The solution must fully support all mainstream hypervisors, including ESXi, Hyper-V, and KVM, providing customers with choices and avoiding vendor lock-in. An integrated hypervisor should be built into the HCI stack, utilizing the same HTML5 interface that manages the entire infrastructure.
The solution's software-defined storage must include the following data management features:
Fully automated, intelligent data tiering that works in real-time based on access patterns, elevating data into the flash (SSD) and RAM tier.
Thin provisioning for efficient resource utilization.
Rapid VM cloning for quick deployment.
Crash-consistent and application consistent snapshots for data protection.
Compression and deduplication to optimize storage capacity.
Tunable Data Redundancy policies to ensure data availability in the event of host failures.
Virtualization Features: The solution should support enterprise virtualization features such as VMware vMotion, HA, DRS, and Hyper-V live migration and failover clustering or their respective equivalents.
Distributed Architecture: The solution must not depend on RAID technology or Disk Groups but should be fully distributed, providing scalability and flexibility in the storage infrastructure.
The proposed solution must have the following scalability capabilities:
Non-disruptive Node Addition: The solution should allow adding nodes to the cluster without causing disruptions to the existing environment. New nodes can be seamlessly integrated into the infrastructure.
Non-disruptive Node Removal: The solution should support the removal of nodes from the cluster without causing disruptions. This capability ensures flexibility in managing the infrastructure based on changing needs.
Scale-Out Flexibility: The solution must scale out the infrastructure by adding one or more nodes at a time. This allows for incremental expansion to accommodate growing demands.
Mixed Hardware Models and Generations: The solution should support mixing and matching different models and generations of server hardware from the same manufacturer within the same cluster. This flexibility enables the utilization of existing hardware investments and smooth hardware upgrades.

Independent Storage Capacity Scaling: The solution must provide the ability to scale storage capacity independently of compute resources. This allows organizations to allocate storage resources according to their specific requirements and quickly expand the storage pool.
Distributed Disk Rebuild Operation: All cluster hosts should actively participate in the disk rebuild operation. As the cluster scales and the number of storage controller’s increases, the efficiency of disk rebuilds improves due to parallel data reconstruction. This ensures efficient data recovery and maintenance of high availability.
The proposed solution must include the following networking capabilities:
Network Visualization: The solution should provide a network visualization capability that displays the entire I/O data path from the virtual machine (VM) vNICs to the physical switch port. It should support various server hardware configurations.
Built-in, Scalable Management Tool: The solution's management tool or graphical user interface (GUI) must be built into the distributed system and scale with the cluster. It should be HTML5-based for security reasons. The tool should support all core management tasks and provide a seamless experience within a single interface.
Capacity Planning: The management tool must include a capacity planning feature. It should enable the rightsizing of existing workloads, support expansion for application growth, and facilitate the addition of new workloads. This feature helps optimize resource utilization and plan for future requirements.
The solution must include native, system-wide data analytics with machine learning to analyze resource usage over time and provide tools to monitor resource consumption, identify abnormal behavior, and guide resource planning as well as provide VM “right-sizing” to identify constrained, bully, overprovisioned or inactive VMs Customizable Dashboards: The management tool should support customizable dashboards. Administrators should be able to create personalized dashboards with relevant metrics, visualizations, and performance indicators tailored to their specific monitoring and management needs.

The proposed solution must meet the following security requirements:
Logging and Auditing: The solution should perform logging and auditing of all administrative actions. It must have a native mechanism to ensure the integrity of logs, providing a reliable audit trail for security analysis and compliance purposes.
